“ The year that Larry and I spent together was very enjoyable for both of us. I think it made Larry feel younger and I needed a companion at the time also. That winter we went to Mission Texas until the spring in April when we came home. While in Mission we did many things. We spent a lot of time at the pool and hot tub, we picked grapefruit right off the trees along with oranges and made lots of juice for breakfast. We took a daily trip to Mexico where Larry got his first set of dentures. After his procedure they served us free margaritas in the gazebo area. Mexicans make excellent margaritas. Needless to say, we got a little tipsy but we laughed and laughed and had such a good time. We strolled down the streets of the city looking for vanilla, horse blankets and other items. Then we had to carry our items back across the river to get checked in to the US again. We also did a lot of shopping at the flea market in Weslaco which was open every week. our mode of transportation was his three wheel motorcycle. He really enjoyed driving that. Our entire trip included a stop on the way back at my sister's in San Antonio. I pray that Larry is happy once again beside his wife Sondra. I also give my condolences to the family who are missing their father so much at this time. Lean on God for He will give you the strength to get through your grief.
