“ She was a cold old woman! My grandmother died and she did not express condolences. My mother was terminally ill and she only cared about the precious bookstore!

“ I always loved seeing Orlette was when she was working at Augsburg. Stopping in the library was a warmer experience because of how welcoming she was to everyone. I can still see her standing there, genuinely interested in how I was doing and ready to lend an ear if you wanted to chat. Very sorry for your loss.

“ Dear family of Orlette: I am deeply saddened at Orlette's passing. I worked closely with her at Augsburg University in the library for almost a decade and was struck by the impact she had on so many faculty, staff, and students. She was a genius in her ability to make the library a very welcoming atmosphere and also was a stellar role model for students. She created a lasting impression for all of us with her strong work ethic, her incredible sense of humor, and her moral convictions. She was an indelible embodiment of the college's commitment to academic excellence and deication to truth.
To quote scripture, I thank God upon my every remembrance of Orlette. She changed so many lives for the better! Love, Boyd Koehler, associate professor emeritus
