“ (((Brandon))) March 11th marked your 7 year anniversary of going to Heaven. I still can't get in the cemetery but as soon as I can I will get your plant out there, You were in my thought more so that day because the reality really hits on that day. Spring is on the way and I will spend more time out at the cemetery when it gets nice out. Love and miss you so much my little motormouth. Mom

“ (((((((Brandon)))))))))Happy Birthday. We are all sick so we couldn't get together on the 9th but we had ribs in memory of you tonight. You and your ribs. I never saw anyone who enjoyed them as much as you did.I have been really struggling with My COPD but doing everything in my power to keep at least feeling half way good. It's been a really tuff winter here but today it reached almost 40.As soon as the snow is gone I will bring your new plant out. It is so pretty.Love and miss you bud,Mom

“ (((((Brandon)))))) Another Christmas without you buddy. I must be getting used to only having your spirit with me because I actually was able to have some fun this Christmas. First time since you have been gone. Your brother and Jenny and Dad miss you too. We always talk about things you used to say and do. You were such a crazy character. We have so much snow this year that I couldn't get to your grave to put your wreath out there, but have a beautiful plant to put out there this Easter and the snow better be gone. Love Mom

“ My dear son Brandon, Your birthday has come and gone and your Angel day was a couple of weeks ago. I keep thinking that I will not feel so lost as time goes on, but it has'nt happended for me yet. Ambers little baby died last week so watch over him for her. I feel so bad for her. I have so many memories of you and all she has is a few pictures. I know God does'nt give us more than we can bear, but loosing a child has to the closest thing to it. I love you so much and I saw you in my dream the other night. Mom

“ (((Brandon)))) 10 years ago today I got the phone call that changed my life forever. It was the phone call from Mercy saying that you were in ICU and had been assaulted and I should hurry. God made his presence known and gave me strength that I never knew I could have. He let you stay with us for 6 more years. You were so couragous and taught all of us how to do the same. I miss you so much buddy. Christmas is near and it just is not the same with out you. I try only to remember all the happy times and it helps a little. How you and Luke would pretend you were sleeping untill I got all the presents under the tree. Most people take home movies of all the good times, I took pictures with my heart. Love ya, Mom

“ Brandon, I'm sorry it has been so long. I've read some things and sounds like you never changed a genuine person through and through. God took you cause you are a strong person. Thanks for the memories and we'll stay in touch. I'm not sure about what a cardinal has to do w/you but i've read it in a couple of stories. I saw a red cardinal one day ago at my feeder and found alot out today on the internet. Thanks again buddy. Hi to the fam I knew Luke, and Sue from the Tom Thumb. Luke I was the one who drove the 68 pontiac that we drove around in once in awhile. Sue keep smiling and stay strong. I grad 95 Anoka

“ WINGS OF GOLD

*While watching the olympics, it occured to me one day,
Had there been an event for courage,
You would have blown the crowd away.*

*We thought your disability would certainly take it's toll,
But not you brave Brandon, Your answer was, "Lets Rock & Roll".*

*So many obstacles placed in your way;
So very much determined to make somebody's day.*

*You became our hero and I hope you always know,
You still encourage us, even when we run our race slow.*

*So now your in Heaven and I have been told,
You were given your wings, and they are made of gold.*

“ Brandon was the only one who would let me know that he thought my music sucked! Brandon was a great friend and a very brave individual. I know now that he is at peace and it makes me feel better to know that he is looking down on me and laughing at my ridiculous antics. I will miss Brandon greatly. I wish all the luck to the three of you, Luke, Sue and Craig in getting through this hard time and smoothly as possible. Luke, thanks for being such a good friend to me and if there is anything I can do to help make you feel better, you know I am 100% there for you. I also know that you were a great brother cuz you always put Brandon first no matter what was happening. That is very respectable and shows that you are a great person and that you definitely made Brandons last several years with us much easier and funner than they could have been.

You were around so much it felt like I had another brother. Donna and I shared some "Craig and Terry" stories and those memories made us smile. “ We would like to extend our deepest sympathies to Brandon's family and friends. We have known Brandon ever since we moved to the neighborhood (about 17 years ago) and watched him grow up with our boys. It was always good to see him "wheel on down" with Luke and Max beside him. They would watch the boys wrench on their vehicles and just "hang out" for awhile. Brandon will be missed very much, but never, ever forgotten. May GOD give you strength through this difficult time in life. Keith, Carol, Kirk, Mitch and Andy
