“ Thank you for loving me unconditionally as you were the father I never had. You were always patient with me, even when back in high school, while the family was living on Radisson road, I borrowed the blue van without permission but remember, Jon did too. You let me know it was safe to make mistakes and made me feel loved. You taught me to trust the world again and showed me things only a father could do, like the time you showed me how to move through snow by dropping down a gear and taking it slow. You never hesitated when my car broke down, you always showed and fixed the issue. For a while there, I thought you had magic as you always made things new again for everyone. I remember you always made my girls scream in laughter whenever you yold them you were coming for their belly button! As I sat here today, I spoke your name and felt I had so much to say. For a moment there, I felt your presence and as the wind blew into my window, I heard your voice! You said, "I am safe."□
