“ I can't thank everyone enough for their thoughts, prayers and condolences. I am so touched by the love everyone had for my brother.

Chris was not only my brother, but my best friend! We would stay up late talking about all different subjects. We always dreamed of starting a business together. We would exchange so many good times that we had with our friends in college and as adults. We used to go out and we would laugh about how we were single and we'd have to put the "Sibling" mark on the forehead, so people wouldn't think we were a couple. (I guess that's more of an inside joke with us). We used to gang up on poor Mom. She was a good sport though.

I know he loved his niece and nephew and wished he could have spent more time with them. But, I will tell them everything about their uncle, and they will cherish his memory too. Martin wasn't a hunting buddy but he's sure going to miss the fishing, golf and pool competitions.

I could go on and on, but most important about Chris is that I was so EXTREMELY proud of him. And so lucky to have had him as a brother. My heart aches and it always will for my loss. He was such a loving, funny, generous, mischievous, giving man. Chris, I love you and God I miss you. But, I know you'll be looking over me and the family and all of our wonderful friends. I love you KIDDO!!!!

“ Chris was a very good friend of mine. When I spoke to friends and family the words I noticed that kept reoccurring were pride, caring, sportsman, and giving.

Chris was all of those things and more. I can't tell you what a big heart the man had. He was genuine, a heart of gold that you don't find in too many people. For example, he was working on a project last year that a family who had financial difficulty wanted him to work on a last minute project and needed to get done before the bank would take their house. Chris worked on it tirelessly and was not guaranteed money unless the deadline was met. I remember telling him not to keep working on it because of his own financial situation, but he told me that this family needed help and bottomline put this family before his own needs. This was something that I never understood but to Chris helping someone else out of a jam meant more. It just shows what type of a person he was.

Besides being a close friend, he was my hunting partner and we shared many experiences as well as stories and dirty jokes in the duckblind and field. What I wouldn't give to spend another morning with him again. Actually some day we will. I know in heaven, he has saved the best hunting spot for his father and friends. I just hope that he hasn't shot all the ducks by the time I get there (the way he shoots someday there should be something left :)

Chris will be dearly missed by all who knew him. I know for me that I am a richer person just knowing him and that he will be around for me in spirit. I love you Chris and it eases me to know you are at peace now.

A special thanks to my friends and family who have helped me to cope with my loss. He meant a great deal to me and I will never forget him.

God bless to all and let god strengthen everyone during this trying time.

“ Dear Chris,

You and your family were our very first and closest friends on Siesta Drive. We will always remember you as the little boy with the straight blonde hair, the freckles and the easy smile. You were quiet but not shy. You were thoughtful and sensitive yet determined and fiesty. You were an integral part of every football game, every street hockey game, army battle, construction crew (all those tree forts), birthday party and baseball game. We never see a tent set up in someone's yard without thinking of you. You shared your knowledge and love of camping with David and Rob and that was so special for them. God bless you and your wonderful family.

“ Dear Lynn, Scott & Ann,
So many memories of family, not the least of which is helping deliver a litter of Westies with great success. Chris & I spoke at length about two years ago, he offered to help me with a home improvement project. I declined, not wanting to burden him with the journey or the task at hand. I so wanted to visit with him at that time and will forever wish that I had. My prayers are with you and your son's loving, generous spirit.

“ A mirror reflects a man's face, but what he is really like is shown by the kind of friends he chooses. (Proverbs 27:19) Chris, we considered you a friend. We still can't believe we won't see your sparkling eyes and mischeivous grin greeting us at the ice fishing extravaganza. How will we ever find our group without the McGlashan Tartan to guide us? You were one heck of a nice guy and will be missed by many. We'll be listed among those who called you friend. We'll see you again someday and perhaps we'll pitch a few horseshoes.
