“ I and my 2 older brothers grew up with Dino and his 2 younger brothers, Milton and George. Our families shared backyard picnics. All of us as youngsters delivered newspapers, morning and evening issues as well as Sunday. Dino managed the "paper shack" on Nicolette Avenue and was to me a giant of a personality that made sure everything was done correctly in accounting for all the papers for which he was responsible. I have many good recollections about that phase of my growing up and remember well his sure and steady hand running his workplace and managing the several (what? 12 to 15) youngsters who operated from his shack.
