“ I miss David. He hired me to make pizzas Sunday nights and my wife Katy as a waitress when we were starving West Bank students. If there was a "mistake" on a pizza order he was happy to have us take it home. Some weeks we could live for days on a massive accidental-on-purpose mistake. He made sure the alley cat out back got his dinner too.

David was a kind soul who treated everyone fairly and to the best of my memories never lost his temper, which is unusual for a busy kitchen. I especially remember him escorting a male customer who made an off-color comment to Katy right out the door.

David will be missed.
