“ One Sunday in Philip, while the State trooper was being celebrated at his going away party. Dennis took me to ride around our small town, we joined another group as we race around the town. Much to the displeasure of many town folks. We were having a great time of car tag. Thankfully we were alerted to our local law was hunting us, we evaded capture by heading to a nearby town. Mom would have had our heads...it was harmless fun. Just like night watermelon fields raids, they sure were good. To mischievous memories love you my brother.
