“ Don’s artistic talent and warm humanism were massively influential on me, an example of positive masculinity, and he was the reason I went into filmmaking.

I wish I’d known him better. A few years ago I did get the chance to tell him, in some brief words over the phone, what his influence meant to me, right before I moved to Texas to pursue my career.

I’ll always remember what he taught me: Never stop learning, never stop creating, and never stop caring.

“ Don was one of the most kind and gentle people that I have known. I will forever be grateful for all of the love he bestowed upon my sons, Ben and James. May he rest in peace. To the family, all of my love and prayers. May God comfort you as you walk through this difficult time.
