“ I am so sorry for your loss at such a time when the world is to be at peace. Death may steal our loved ones from us ut it can NEVER steal your memories. It is at these times that your memories will bring you through such an hour of grief. It is a life long process that you get through one day at a time. You NEVER just get over it or the loved one. That is is a good thing because you need to remember them and talk with them daily.
