From a young age, Liz was determined. Despite facing various health challenges, Liz never gave up and never complained. She always found a way to exceed others' expectations of what she was capable of. As a kid, she took off her leg brace and threw it, even after doctors told her parents she may never walk. If she had her mind set to it you could not tell her no.

She always wanted the best for her loved ones, fought and advocated for them, and pushed them to see things through and achieve their full potential.

She was always filled with pride and joy when talking about her loved ones, especially her daughters.

Liz was a trendsetter in her family, often being the first to have the newest technology, which she made sure to treat well and wouldn't replace unless there was no other option. She left the protective wrapping on many of her appliances and kept her car in working order for 25 years.

Liz took great care and interest in those around her too. Always curious about everyone's doings, Liz could spend hours on the phone being filled with life from the stories of people she loved. She loved staying in touch and staying connected with family and friends. At family gatherings, she participated in the "Midwest Goodbye", always sticking around for "just one more" conversation before leaving. Liz remembered everything, even things that people forgot about themselves.

Liz loved music. She played piano and had a beautiful singing voice, which she passed along to her daughters. She loved listening to music, playing her favorites again and again.

Though she was known for giving sass to her sisters, she taught her daughters compassion through example. Liz cared for other people's children as if they were her own, and always looked out for those who were different, making sure that she treated them with kindness.

“ “Lizzie” was a persistent and lovable girl and woman! Fred and I met her through Young Life ministry and our connections to Washburn High School. She chose me as a friend, called me to chat very often and stopped by Rustic Lodge for visits. Yes, she loved music and I could share that with her. I knew Harlen for a time and once needed a Jewish rams horn for an Ash Wednesday service at St. Joan of Arc! Liz made it happen, but the pandemic delayed our Lenten services and I never got to use it!! I will always remember Liz as a “doer” and possibility thinker with a huge, kind heart! Blessings and peace to the whole Marble Larson family!
