Emmett was a strong male figure in our local neighborhood. He was active in Cub Scouts, Weblows, Boy Scouts, and most every week end it seemed as though he took time to bring his children and 25 of the neighbor children water or snow skiing or fishing and camping. He was a kind happy soul and I learned a lot from Emmett. Janet Kaufman was equally as supportive and made it all possible. He once single handedly ripped a car door off a new 1968 Delta 88 convertible while on duty to save a local wealthy businessman who was mortally injured in an accident in front of all the neighborhood people and everyone gave a resounding heartfelt cheer (no one else could get the door off with there bare hands like he actually did) and that is how Emmett will always be for me in my heart. Bless His family.
