“ Seeing Harry and the rest of our children, grow, play, laugh get each-other going other all the time seemed to keep us all youthful (parents etc.) as well.

His engaged mind and good-natured wise-guy attitude never failed to make Nico and me laugh.

In many ways he will live on inside all who love him.

We live in a diminished world in his absence but a better world because of his gifts...

“ While of course I will remember Harry from all the baseball games, birthday parties and sleepovers when the kids were in grade school, a story came to mind of more recent vintage. A few summers ago, I had the pleasure of taking Harry, Jack, and a few others out to play paintball in Wisconsin. While the paintball was fun, the best part was the drive out and back during which time Harry had the entire minivan laughing constantly with his jokes and commentary. Such a sharp wit! He will be so missed by us all.

“ We have many fond memories of Harrison, who was born on the same day as our son Theo: birthday parties, baseball games, school events. Harrison came over to our house regularly for D&D meetings, where added his own unique element of chaos to the campaign, and continued the chaos outside afterwards, with snowball fights and stick battles. Harrison's character, Pickles (aka Chaotico), sailed the seas as a pirate, battled goblins and crocodiles, worked in a lumber yard, and spent his gold pieces on a spiked collar and a tailor-made jester's hat. In one adventure, Pickles encountered a venomous snake on a forest trail. He picked the snake up and tossed it into the bushes rather than attempting to harm it. We are glad to have known Harrison as a friend and neighbor, and so sorry that he has gone.

“ We have known Harrison since daycare where he and my son became great friends. That friendship continued and we had the pleasure of going on many adventures with Harrison, back yard fires, nerf wars, sledding, sleepovers and many more. He was such a funny, bright and very kind person. We are deeply saddened by his passing and our hearts ache for all who knew and loved him. We will never forget his easy smile, laugh, and big heart.

“ I met him when he was in elementary school with my son. I adored Harrison’s grin and easy going spirit. I ran into him after he graduated from high school. He smiled and gave me a hug. So sweet.

“ I knew Harry from kindergarten on because he was one of my son Jack’s best friends. I have so many wonderful memories of him—so many sleepovers, baseball games, birthday parties, and just general running around the neighborhood. Harry was brilliant and funny and so very sweet. We loved him and we loved that Jack had him as such a great friend. He came up to my parents’ cabin with us for a weekend when he was 8 or 9 and we went to the Ottertail County Fair to see the demolition derby. Harry was wearing a faux raccoon skin cap, which was totally fitting in with the vibe. A man stopped him and asked if he had hunted the raccoon himself, and Harry replied in a shocked and serious voice, “no! I would never hurt an animal!” He will not be forgotten, and he will always be in the hearts of all of his good buddies from school and the neighborhood.
