“*Harry and Susan were our favorite and most caring neighbors. We lived across the street from each other. We moved to our house on January 5th, 2010. It was a snowy day and the movers arrived late to unload the truck. Harry came out to help and the next day Susan brought us a cake and introduced herself. They would always watch for our house when we're traveling and even clear our snow or mow our grass while we're away or at work. Both were very loving, supportive and great company. They loved any dish we shared with them, especially "Nouilles" (pasta dish with chicken, ham, corn, and bechamel sauce) which we made often and always shared a pan with them. We remember their smiles, joyful spirits and the fun times we had listening and sharing life stories. Knowing them was a blessing. Not a single day passes by that we don't remember them every time we look towards their house.
May they rest in peace and be both welcomed in heaven and in each other's arms. Our condolences to the family.
