“ Our wonderful, sweet aunt was always special to visit. The last time I visited her she couldn't see well but she knew me by my voice and got so excited. What a blessing it was to have her in my life. The three sisters; Mary, Bernie and now Helen are together again.

It is true that our families remain so distant from each other. However as you can see we still remain connected. Vern Bartholomew used to call Helen from his assisted living center and Helen came to his funeral gathering. Bernie, Helens older sister kept in contact for years with her especially since their mother, Margaret, asked Bernie to keep a close touch with Helen: obviously Margaret's favored and last daughter. I so wanted to personally visit Helen, not just talking to her on the phone, but I waited to long. When her phone stopped working I panicked and went to her residence even during the anti social distancing recommended. I am so sad about that. I really miss Helen. May God bless us all.
