“ Jim was a really great guy. We were in a mens group together at church and were at a couple of retreats together. He always really listened to what I and others had to say and had good advice. When my dad passed from cancer a year ago because of drinking himself to death Jim really had good insight. He really helped me heal and think about the ways drinking impacts people. I will miss him and his insight and listening. One of the last things we reflected on a Wednesday of last week when we were in group together was this song- General Dance by Merton. I keep listing to it and thinking of Jim and know he is in a good place now and smiling down on all of his loved ones.
