“Joan was the love of my dad's life. Theirs's was a true love story. They met in the early '80's, but it was not meant to be (Joan was not ready to give up her independence). My dad never stopped thinking about her and in the mid 90's sent her "The bridges of Maddison County. As it turned out, she had never stopped thinking about him. They were companions ever since, playing cribbage and laughing as he teased her all the while. I will forever be thankful for the joy she brought my father. May they find each other once again.
