Family and friends were Joy's delight. She loved to visit and attend gatherings when she could. She had a great sense of humor and was keenly interested in her family's news and activities. She loved to play games and cards (especially Bridge), work crossword and jigsaw puzzles, travel, knit and do needlework, visit casinos, and listen to music (especially Neil Diamond and the Eagles). A Celebration of Life in her honor will be held Saturday, October 12, from 1-5 p.m. at Granite City Food & Brewery, 3330 Pilot Knob Road, Eagan, MN. Private interment at Fort Snelling National Cemetery. Memorials preferred to the American Macular Degeneration Foundation. Washburn-McReavy.com
