

John Jacob (J.J.) Ramstad

May 13, 2007

Ramstad, John Jacob (J.J.) age 17, died May 6, 2007, in a fatal car accident along with his father, C.J. Ramstad. Born September 4, 1989, in Minneapolis, Minnesota, J.J. was a junior music student at the Main Street School of Performing Arts. J.J. always had a joke to tell, always made you laugh, and had a bizarre and outrageous storytelling wit. As he grew up, J.J. turned his child-like imagination toward music and artistic expression, including making clay monsters and drawing cartoons. He was a dirtbiker, skateboarder and guitar-playing Reggae lover who spent his summers swimming at the beach. J.J. loved to explore the outdoors and take on a good adventure. His guitar and long dreadlocks were his trademark style and groove since he was 12 years old. Filled with delight and devotion, J.J. was a born rock star with a wise, magnetic spirit. As a hero and a leader to his friends and family, he will forever be loved and missed. J.J. is survived by his mother, Karla; and sister, Marly.
