“ Joe always had great stories about life from a bygone era in northern Minnesota, boxing, business, proper vernacular, how to raise jade plants, battling the government, and pretty much everything. He was generous to my son and me and always welcomed us to his home. My son especially liked watching Joe perform a Dean Martin-like roast on me, which to the uninformed seemed mean, but was actually hilarious. Also, he hated the word actually.

Miss you, buddy
