“Joyce knew her Bible read it everyday. She was a good cook, poet, and lots of laughs. She had lots of family life stories to tell.”

“ Grandma thank you for everything! As I look back on photos from the past I can't help but cherish every moment I saw you. I still remember the story you would tell me about when I was in Minnesota visiting as child probably no older than six and how I walk off and got lost to have a cop show up at your door step with me by his side and how I asked the cop just how much water fit in his gun and how that made you laugh I don't remember it but I will never forget how it put a smile on your face when you told it. I also remember the summers you and grandpa would come down and visit. From trips to the Zoo or BBQ at Marty's and Vey's at the lake, it was always a blessing. You always had me in your thoughts and prayers. I appreciate all the letters you wrote me from when I was in Washington, Colorado, Iraq, and California. Life was never too busy for you to forget about your grandkids and that meant so much to me. It has to been a blessing to have been able to be called your grandson, and I have been honored to have such a loving grandmother as you. I could have never asked for anything more. Rest peacefully now in heaven and say hi to grandpa for me when you get a chance.

Love your grandson,

Ben (the cantaloupe kid)

“ I'm filled with mixed emotions surrounding the passing of Joyce. The last few weeks I had the honor of spending a couple of evenings in her home hearing stories of her life and her relationship with Jesus over the years, not to mention the legacy she has left as a mother, a daughter, a writer, a poet, and grandmother to so many. I'm sad because a beautiful woman's presence is now missing from my faith family, and I wasn't able to say final goodbyes. But I'm also filled with a sorrowful joy because I'm thankful her pain is no more and she is now dancing in the presence of Jesus with loved ones and all the saints who have gone before. Her life is a beautiful story that God has shared in the lives of many, particularly with the people at Beltrami Community Church and the neighborhood that bears that same name. I am grateful to have been a part of her life the last 5 years. I will see her again and look forward to that day! You are missed Joyce, but you will NEVER be forgotten!

“ I am so sorry to hear of Joyce's passing. I have many sweet memories of her from when I was a little girl and spent time down the street with my Gramma Hazel. I loved to stop to chat with her if we saw her in the yard as we passed by. When I visited with Joyce at Gramma Hazel's funeral in the fall of 2011, she was exactly as I remembered her: She had a smile on her face, kind words to say and the gentlest demeanor. I always thought she was a strong and sweet lady, and I feel sad that she's gone.
