“ Her stories on her connections to the esp are legendary and she always had a different story on how she saw something coming. I remember when I was little the visit would end up with my sister and I taking home tons of lotions and jewelry. She would start bringing them out and start giving them to us to look at and then say would you like a piece of candy, then immediately bringing out her caramel candies for us. She loved to spoil use grandchildren as much as she could.
