

Kathleen Glyn Boyce

November 9, 1931 - September 20, 2023

Kathleen Glyn Boyce (Kay, to many) was born in November 1931. This - the era - is what instilled her capabilities as a mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, auntie, great-auntie, the way they used to be, and why she was the standard in reading, writing, and arithmetic until her death in September 2023. Dinner from scratch and homemade cake was her way. One who would actually scrub socks and iron sheets, Kay was a wife and a mother, having children into her 40's, who earned a degree in her 50's, and continued on to educate young children for nearly another 20 years. Before she was ever busy with these things, Kay was an artist, painting alongside her father. She was a talented seamstress who learned to sew out of necessity, but who decades later still found joy in handmaking aprons for her daughters and her granddaughters. If Kay made a friend, she kept the friend. She could not carry a tune in a bucket, but she loved to sing and loved music (she might have been known to bust a move on occasion, too). While she wasn't shy of telling you what she thought, Kay might be one of the only ones to ever reach the age of 91 and maintain a filter. "Wheel of Fortune" right after the evening news was easily her most anticipated time of day. She traveled to China to spread the love of Jesus to those who are lost without Him, and she traveled to Israel to walk in His steps and be where He was. Kay is survived by her eight children, 19 grandchildren, 20 great-grandchildren (with two more on the way), two sisters, one brother, several nieces and nephews of her own, and numerous friends and loved ones. She prayed for people she didn't know. If you are reading this, she probably prayed for you by name every night. There is no one who knew Kay that didn't also know she loved them. That, too, was her way.

“ My grandma was one of the purest souls present on earth. She was a trooper, birthing and rearing 8 kids and she loved them all dearly. She was patient with us grandkids and always had the best things to say when we needed it. When I was growing up she'd say things to me like "as you get older you'll learn it's not always important to be right" "Jesus loves messes" and my favorite thing was when I was 13 and we were at the mall and I pointed out a kid that liked me and she said "Oh Silla, he's not that cute" HA! I still think about some of those things she's said to me, even 25 years later, but one that meant the most she told me at 17 when I was having a hard time with my friend and I was crying. She walked in my room, sat down and hugged me and said "in 5 minutes you'll feel better, in 5 hours you'll have happier thoughts and in 5 years you'll be at another place in your life, don't dwell on things because it never stays the same, it always gets better" All these years later I replay those words and have applied it many time since in my life. She was the best at those things ❤️❤️
