“ Although I never had the gift of meeting Ms. Bogan, I am so grateful for Ms. Bogan's life and the legacy she leaves in her daughter Darlene, who has touched the lives of so many children and families with her love, kindness and empathy. We've been lucky enough to work as partners with Ms. Bogan's extraordinary daughter Darlene and son-in-law Curtis in our work to improve child welfare across the nation. We feel grateful to have the chance to know Ms. Bogan through Darlene and to see what she must have modeled about what it means to walk in love. The entire Youth Law Center and Quality Parenting Initiative crew sends love and light to the entire family during this time.

“ Although I did not know Ms Bogan, I do know her wonderful daughter Darlene and son-in-law Curtis. Their amazing kindness and generosity of spirit tell me all I need to know about what a wonderful mother and model she was. We are thinking of your family at this sad time, but her memory will be a blessing.

“ There was never a time in my life when Aunt Honey Bee was not there. So many wonderful memories - fun times, love, and a good talking to when needed. The stories she and my granny told of the things they used to get into were priceless.

I can't imaging life without her and my heart is truly broken, but I do know that her legacy will live on in all of us. I will miss her dearly and it will be hard to call the house and her not answer the phone or meet you with a hug when you visit.

You are truly missed Aunt Honey Bee. I will always remember life with you and will love you forever.

“ Mom known as Honeybee, was a loving lady, a mother to the motherless. She loved being around her children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren. Even when the kids were too young to know who she is, she'd say "Come boy/girl and give granny a hug". Anyone that has been hugged by her, know that her hugs are real because you really feel it.

Playing Spades are one of the past times we are going to miss with her. She was a fierce competitor. Moma would sit and play for hours and laugh and tell stories that would make you chuckle and forget you're playing cards. She could cook up a storm. And on hot days, she didn't mind cooking in the hot kitchen, because that's the way it was as they were growing up.

We've collected so many sayings from Moma that we will cherish and pass down to the generations. Moma will forever be in our hearts. God has blessed us to know her and to love her before calling her home. She has left her legacy and has taken flight. We will forever miss her.

*Love you Moma,
Darlene and Curtis Bell*
