“ Well I guess this book is going offline in a few days, so will write one last note. I think about you often, Louise, and wish we had a better sister relationship than we had. But what we had is what we had. I try to focus on our good times together. I remember walking down the halls at school with my friends and seeing you, Alice Rygh and/or Barb Palmer walking ahead of us. My friends would always say - "Is that really your sister? She's so short." I remember mostly - of school years - going rollerskating at the Pavilion and watching you and Duffy skate. I remember the couple of blind dates you and Duffy fixed me up with (one of them, Duffy's cousin Don Wesen!). I remember sitting at home in Glenwood playing cards with Mom and all of us - especially playing Zioncheck. Gosh, that was a fun game. I remember the nite of the big blizzard and the Hancock basketball team played in Glenwood and couldn't get home because of the weather, so Mom said they could all stay at our house. ALL your girlfriends wanted to come and spend the night. A lot of them came and everyone sat up most of the night playing cards and eating and laughing. I spent most of the night calling my girlfriends and bragging that the whole basketball team was at my house! Then Mom told everyone's fortunes. All of our friends loved having her do that! Those were fun times, and I guess I'll be hanging on to those memories for a while yet. I don't plan on going anywhere soon!
Love, Ramona

“ Hey grandma! I will never forget when I asked you what you have been up to and you said oh nothin, just monkey business. That is one memory of you that I will never forget, along with smarties and you being really good at trivia. Oh, and cowboy jack, We still have a tape of it at home. I hope everything is going well in heaven! I look forward to seeing you and grandpa together again! I hope you two are doing well up there! Your grandsonCory

“ Well, Louise, its hard to believe my "big" sister is really gone. But I know you are at peace. I know it more than ever, especially since Suzi and I were with you and helped you begin your journey home. You went so peacefully. I'm so glad I got back in time to be with you and spend your last night here on earth together, along with Suzi. I'm sure you and Duffy did some rejoicing when you were reunited. What a joyful time that must have been. I'll miss you, Louise. Your sister Ramona.
