“ Rest in peace “Millie” (play on the abbreviation “Mlle.”-she’s right; there is nothing wrong with “being a Miss.”). May your cup runneth over . . . with Eau Joe. May you have an endless supply of beaded decor from which to hang your lunettes from. May you no longer have to drive off school grounds in your green machine for your ciggy breaks (yes, we all knew). And may you continue to smite your enemies with seven plagues of paquet in every color of the rainbow (if you know you know).

“ Mademoiselle's French class was the best part of my day, and I will never forget how she encouraged us all to study hard and have fun with our lessons. The homework was never too taxing, and it was amazing to really study a culture, a history, different from our own. We sang Christmas carols, we ate French treats, we read stories, even though we had so much to learn about the language. She was a spunky woman, with a no-nonsense way about her. I looked up to her then, and I always will. Blessings to her and her family.

“ To Mlle. Collins: I just wanted to say thank you for inspiring me not just to learn French, but to be more aware of and open to the world - - and to seek it out for exploring. I am a better person for having been your student, and I will always remember your class -- and you -- with great fondness. Thank you for the part you played in my life. Adieu et a bientôt.

To the family and loved ones of Mlle. Collins: I cannot imagine your grief or how much more deeply you will feel Anne's loss; we were just her students, while you have lost a beloved family member and friend. But if it gives you any comfort, please know that a generation of her students were inspired and made better by her life's work. She leaves a her legacy of thousands of students -- thousands of PEOPLE -- who see the world differently and who took joy in her teaching. She made a BIG difference in this world. I hope that the thought of the students she touched helps you find peace.
