“ I will never forget Marv...he was a good man who was always willing to help others. I really enjoyed hanging out and visiting in the driveway and enjoying a cold Busch Lite together. Marv went out of his way to be helpful and to share what he had learned over the years. He treated my children with respect, but maintained himself as an authority figure - something few people even attempt to do today, and my kids respected him for that. It was always fun to listen to the stories he and RoseMarie shared...and how he never had it quite right (but the boss would always set it straight). You will be missed...
