“ Nick,
He was my friend of over 50yrs, I was trying to remember some of the memories growing up with nick and i have no recollection of one that stands out above the rest. But if nick was here you could ask him and he would tell you every detail of one or another all the way down to what ever the temp was was. If there was ever any way to say good by to nick one last time it would be real cool because I'm gonna miss him.
Rest in peace brother.

“ Nick loved everything about being a Cavalry Scout in the Army. From pulling border duty at Camp Pitman on the Czech border, to gunnery exercises at Grafenwohr, to maneuver training at Hohenfels, Nick loved it all and excelled at it. He expected the same from his fellow soldiers. Nick was a great Scout and great friend and a brother to me. Our conversations always ended with “I love you Brother”. Fiddler’s Green is a poem about a place where Cavalrymen link up after passing. There we link up and raise a glass to those that came before us and await the Brothers yet to come.
Until Fiddler’s Green, I’ll see you there.
I love you Brother 🇺🇸🇺🇸🇺🇸
