“ My Uncle Norm was an old Norwegian fiddle player, who liked to drink, to travel, to hunt & fish, and to tell stories. He was a deeply beloved brother to my Mom & her sister, a friend & welcome visitor to his brothers-in-law (which is saying quite a lot!) and a much-loved uncle to all us cousins. Sure wished we'd lived nearer.

“ Norman Lee was a big man with a big heart. He had a great love of life, music, and people and was always willing to share his many talents. Remarkable, too, were his sense of humor and his generosity. Norman was a blessing to all who knew him and will be greatly missed. See you up yonder, Big Norm!Winkers/Elena
