“Quan was not only a dear friend, but father figure and role model to me. He has always been warm, welcoming, and full of positive energy.

We talked alot over the years.

One embarrassing, yet memorable moment I had with him was when he saw a goofy photo of me and this girl I was talking to on my cell phone. This was right after i had graduated from high school. He just chuckled and told me about his stories of his younger years how girls were chasing him and how he met and fell in love with Nicole.

Other times, it was him talking about how proud he was of Crystal, how much he loved Quinten and how much he wanted Quinten to strive for, and how much his baby Nicholas has grown up.

Every time I was close by, I would always stop and visit to see if Quan was home or give him a call if I was in town. Even when I wasn't in town, I'd still give him a call, message, or a post on his Facebook wall. Thanksgiving, Christmas, his birthday, Father's Day, random days throughout the year.

I will miss him a lot. I'm sad because I won't be able to visit him when I'm close by anymore, or won't get to take him out to eat anymore, or invite him to my home to meet my family when I buy my first house whenever this crazy housing market ever goes down.

To the Bui family, you are all loved and friends of mine. Please feel free to contact me if you need anything and to stay in touch.

Thank you
