“ Hello Lu, Sally, Linda, Carolyn, Lori, Michelle, Brad, Austin, & everyone else I could have possibly missed: You have my deepest condolences on the loss of Ralph, the last of the Frendel brothers. He was the first one to reach fifty years old and passed at age 58, exactly 4 months away from being 59. Wow! it meant so much to him to be able to turn 50, and yet he knew that he was going to pass early, and not be able to live to a ripe old age. Even though the fact of his passing, his spirit is still very much alive. Now he comes to you in the form of an angel, until you join with him again some day. Hold his memory in your heart forever, and know that he is in peace!

A message to Michelle: (something Ralph & I never got a chance to share with you), When Austin turned 05, Ralph turned 50. When Austin turns 16, Ralph would have been 61. And when Austin turns 27, Ralph would have been 72. It lines up like that every 11 years, and yet their birthdays were 5 days apart, I think. See if you can find some kind of meaning in that for you and Austin. And explain that to Austin, when he gets old enough to understand.

When Ralph & I would go to church, he always lit candles for his passed away family members (he always did that).

Take Care Everyone, Vivian S. Frendel

*Something else I should have mentioned, was after Ralph's 50th birthday party, he released a helium balloon to each one of his family members. He named, who the balloons went to as he released them into the air. It was very cool. Again, you have my sincere sympathies.
