Tribute Wall

“ My best memory of Uncle Reno was that he would give us bags of comic books. My brothers and I would spend hours reading those comics. I bet we received several thousand books over the years. If only we had saved them, we'd be rich today. I also remember watching him melt down lead he collected and cast bullets with it. Quite the recycler. Although we didn't keep in touch as I grew older, I appreciate his kindness to us kids. My condolences to his family.
