“ Rick was my very good neighbor and I considered him a friend. He was always polite and kind to me. Sometimes we would share meals (as some of my neighbors do) - he would cook up something good and call me to to come get a plate of food, and I would do the same for him. I had just seen Rick about a week before his passing, he called me to say he had just baked some brownies . . . oh and he bakes some really good brownies! The first time he made them he even put ice cream on top. I didn't get the ice cream the last time, but they were still good, and warm. He said, "Take as much as you want." Rick was the kind of fella who would offer his help to you, and would always say, "If you need anything..." Well I never did really, but if he were here to say that to me today, I would ask him to bake some of those delightful brownies - Rest Heavenly my friend, you are sorely missed.

“ I was so sad to hear of your passing Rick. You were like a Father to me, you made sure I never felt judged and I knew you would always be there and we were family.
