“ I have known Bob for approximately forty years. We worked many projects together during that time. We also shared interest in personal projects. We had lunch together about five or six weeks ago and he called me two weeks ago and told me he was in hospice care. I am going to miss him a great deal as he was a great friend. He truly loved his family and his grandchildren were very special to him. He shared with me that when he found out he had cancer his granddaughter told him not to worry, Jesus will take care of you. I pray that all of you (his family) will find comfort in the coming days.
Sincerely
Lee Armstrong

“ Bob and I met when we were toddlers. Our fathers lived in Milwaukee 5 blocks apart. They went to school together and remained good friends throughout their lives. In 1957, my parents moved 15 miles north to Mequon. Bob's parents moved one year later to the same subdivision. Bob and I have remained friends all these years. This last week, I've thought of our past times together. It's hard to think of any one memory over the span of 76 years. This is one I hadn't thought about in over 50 years. It took place in Virmond Park. In the mid-sixties, Bob and I used to go smelting in Lake Michigan using a seine net. It required us to wear waders, since the Smelt run starts in late March and runs into April. When we arrived at the Park, we took off our shoes and put on the waders. We proceeded to the Lake navigating a bluff that had no stairs and no pathways. While smelting, a wave washed over my waders and I had to take them off and call it a night. Here I am in wet socks and no way to get back to the car. The top of the bluff was about a 100 feet above the lake; it was steep and had a lot of thorny brush. Bob didn't hesitate, he hunched over and told me to get on his back and carried me up that entire bluff. At the time, I probably weighed 30 pounds more than him. I can't help but think of Dione Warwick's song "That's what friends are for" with tears in my eyes.

“ Bob and I were pen pals and then email correspondents for many years. We connected through the Beach Boys Fan Club and have shared our mutual enthusiasm for that band and its offshoots for several decades. I also worked with Bob as a graphic designer for several of his projects, including his "Siegfried's Voyage" family history book. I'm glad he got the chance to get that book out.

Bob obviously loved traveling. My husband and I always looked forward to the annual Siegfried travel calendar -- the 2023 one is currently hanging in our computer room.

I found Bob to be a genuine, down-to-earth, and generous soul. I will miss our friend from Minnesota.

I wish all of you blessings and comfort in this time of loss. Keep your fond memories of Bob close to heart.
