“ Always around this time of year I think of you more. This was always your favorite time of year, Halloween, hunting season, ice fishing season, and of course your Birthday. I still can't believe you are not here, although sometimes I wonder if you are not hanging around Wyatt's room at times scaring those monsters away :) We love you so much and you remind me to tell my loved ones that every day. xoxo

She's trying so hard every day to do everything,And doing the best job. And my Parker is growing up the best little boy there is. He's amazing. There's times with me we talk about you, His Dad. You would be so proud,he's just like you. And it's so hard.Everytime I look at him,it's you. Your sisters-in-law have been great with both of them. And your friends I can't thank them enough.They are there right now for them.Parker loves all of them.We all think of you every minute of the day. I Love You,Bob.And always will.

“ Words cannot say how much you are missed, especially on this day, which would have been your big 3-0. The guys left for the annual fishing trip this morning, but they are missing one very important person – you. This trip will not be the same for them, but hopefully they will catch some fish in your honor! Thinking of you now and forever – CHEERS! Love, Kelly

“ Deer camp ended today. Bobby wasn't here this year. I can only guess that his only regrets would be that he will not be able to lay by his wife, Dawn, until eternity, or be here to nurture his son, Parker, into maturity. Our family extends it's heartfelt thanks to all the friends, relatives and family who have supported us through this very difficult time. As if on cue, the skies become grayer, darker and the cold, mid-November north wind, blows harder and harder. An icy rain begins to fall. I scan the shadows, one last time, looking for a sign, wishing the acrid burning in my pallet would go away. I cry, again, for Bobby, hoping it will be the last; knowing it won't. Next year, at this time, the pines at Allen's Acres will be taller, stronger, just like your Parker. Do not fear, Son, for I and many others will watch over Him. May you rest in peace. Love, Dad

“ Dawn and Parker, I've tried to think of the right words to say to you, but there are no words to help you right now. I wish I could take away all your sadness. We thought the world of Bob. Parker your Dad was the best, he was awesome. The world is a better place because Bob was in it. He made us laugh, and he made us smile, and he was always there with a hug when someone needed one. Heaven has another angel, and we all have another one watching over us. Dawn and Parker I know he loved you both so very much. He didn't even have to say it, I could see it in his eyes when he looked at the two of you. I know right now you probably think the hurt will never go away, but I promise you that time will help. You have so many friends and family that love you both. If you ever need anything at all remember we are here for you both. Bob will always have a place in our hearts, he touched alot of lives, and with that his memory will live. Sending you both Huge Hugs, and Kisses! Auntie Lisa

“ Dawn and Parker. I cant not express in the right words the saddness I feel for your loss. I know that you both will get through this with your strength and the love and support from your family and friends. Chris, I could never imagine the pain you and your brothers are feeling over this loss of a brother. and the heartache your mom must feel. I love you and will always be here for you. Familes and Friends, my sympathies go out to all you. For everyone who was a part of Bobbies life past or present my love, heart and prayers go out to everyone. Much Love
