“ My dearest aunt Sandy,

I love you so very much! Although I am sad you're not here to talk to and discuss books, marriage, & life, I know that this was your time to go home. I find peace in knowing that you are no longer suffering with your lupus or other health conditions. Peace in knowing that you are reunited with mamaw and papaw Reese, grandpa Jobert your father, and all the loved ones who went home before you. I picture you in the garden of the heavens tending to the good Lord's plants and flowers. While I am certain we will all be crying today, I know that we will also be feeling your love and light wash over us. Wrapping us in your warmth as if to say it's okay. There are no words that do you and your life justice. You were just one of those people that if someone knew you, they knew. They just knew that they were blessed by the relationship they had with you. God gives us a lot of people in our lives, but he gave us all something special when he gave us you. Without a doubt you are going to be missed and you will be mourned. Those left behind will carry you in our hearts and in our spirits until the day we shall go home and be reunited. I will be sure to keep writing my books for you and work to get them published as we discussed. Rest in peace aunt Sandy.

“ I was so fortunate to know Sandy for the past year and a half. It wasn't long enough. Sandy and I connected easily and enjoyed seeing each other almost daily. It was my privilege to spend time with her and to be able to help where help was needed. Sandy was one of the most encouraging people I have ever known. She chose to make gratitude a part of her life and always made a point to express her genuine appreciation. I was blessed by her enjoyment of the beauty of nature. She enjoyed the details of how her house plants grew and the intricacies of each flower. Sandy was determined, persistent, stylish and handled life with dignity. She genuinely cared about all those she knew. She will forever be in my heart.

“ In loving memory of our beloved Sandy

*A woman who achieved success;
who lived well,
laughed often, and loved much;
who enjoyed the trust of other women, the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children;
who filled her niche and accomplished her task;
who left the world better than she found it whether by an improved poppy,
a perfect poem or a rescued soul;
who never lacked appreciation of Earth's beauty
or failed to express it;
who always looked for the best in others and gave them the best she had;
whose life was an inspiration,
whose memory is a benediction.*

“ I only knew Sandy through Facebook. We met through a mutual friend. I enjoyed every conversation that we shared. She regularly commented that my posts kept her entertained. She admired my relationship with my daughter and spoke of her children also. We spoke about meeting although I live in Pennsylvania. I see her funeral will be held on Feb 9, my birthday. I will be united in prayer. May Sandy Rest In Peace and may her memory bring comfort to her loved ones.
