

Sandra Lee Brunnes

July 7, 1939 - October 18, 2022

Brunes, Sandra "Sandy" Lee (Prokofieff, Gazette, Brecount) died October 18, 2022 after a second battle with breast cancer. Five years clean between cancer battles, when it came back and after a double mastectomy, it was just too much for her little body. A true classy woman, Sandy lived and loved and then died in a true dignified manner. No one outdid Sandy in classiness. She came from a generation of women who were not ashamed to call themselves, "Classy Broads". Generous beyond measure, she always included the one who was left out. Her children would comment about the many people who were welcome at her Holiday tables because they had no where else to go. A true super fan of Neil Diamond, her last hours were spend listening to his greatest hits. Sandy was a lover of her children, her grandkids, great grandkids, her extended family members whether blood or not. She was well connected: she had her golf girlfriends; she had her bowling girlfriends; she had her bookclub girlfriends; she had her Bible Study friends; she had her sailing girlfriends; she had her work girlfriends; she had her card friends. She went to soccer games, football games, wrestling matches, track meets, baseball games, hockey games, plays, choir concerts, and oh would she cheer for the kid she was watching! She bled purple and the only people that were questionable in her book wore green. Most of all she was a lover of her Lord Jesus! Mom your line in heaven will stretch for miles of those who want to just give you a hug and tell you how important you made them feel on earth. “ I’m going to miss her beautiful smile her welcoming heart and for caring for us , she opened her home with loving arms, i’m going to miss seeing everyone together in your kitchen serving up their plates , and I should’ve told you the last time I saw you but I didn’t want to lose the moment, but I would thank her for always being there for my mom and helping her become the most amazing mom that she is today. you will be missed.
