“ The world has lost it's most thoughtful, kind, positive, caring and loving lady. On her annual December visits to New York City with Leo and Pierre, her joie de vivre would make NYC even more exciting and fun to explore, making dinner at a restaurant an event and turning a mundane hotel room into a home with scarves, candles and incense. Her infectious personality,her laugh and her genuine love for all of those who were with her are a loss to us all. Our lives will not be the same without her, yet we are better people for having known her and having had the honour of spending time with her. We are comforted that she is now with Leo and the dear family members that have gone before her. May she rest in peace.
