“ Scott, I love you and have known you since you were born. My heart aches that you are gone. I was wondering why you hadn't picked up the phone. I love you forever. Be at peace.

Drew, Alex and Jaquelyn- I loved your father, grandma and grandpa. My heart is with you and I am so sad.

With all my love,

Cassie

“ Scott has been my friend since fourth grade. He was a real friend - the kind who shows up, laughs loud, and makes life better just by being in it. For years we went to The Well in Blaine for wings. He was always the life of the party. We traveled together, skied in Colorado, shared cocktails, surprises, and more memories than I can count.

I will miss him deeply.

When Scott died, it forced me - like it does many of us - to think about what comes next. When I was twenty, I had a near-death experience that changed my perspective on life forever. Because of that experience, I don't see this as goodbye.

I believe I will see him again.

Until then, I carry the laughter, the friendship, and the years we shared.

This is hope for the future.

“ You can't imagine the good times and pure friendship that Scott and I had in our teenage years. We were the best of friends in our early teens. He had a Kawasaki 125 and I had a Suzuki 250 and we had our freedom. We rode and hunted and camped and had the best times that a 17 year old could. If you are his daughter....i would love to chat. Please let me know! If you have any questions about who I am ask Korbi. I know the relationship between Scott and his sister was strained but she knew we were best friends

“ I loved that our parents were Good friends and that I got to spend time with Scott when he was little, who is 4 years younger than me. We moved to So. America for 4 years but the friendship with the family picked right up when we returned. ❤️
