“ The summer Sheila got her first job, Aunt Barb hired me to be Scott's care taker. He was only about 9, a dark haired, brown eyed round faced little kid with a witty sense of humor far beyond his tender age. Everyday we would walk down to Como Park and have the most intreging conversations. Needless to say, I adored my wise little cousin. So sad to lose him much too soon. But he will remain in our hearts and memories. Let time soften the loss with relief and comfort. Love and blessings, Mary

“ I never met Scott in person. I only became 'virtual' friends with him on Facebook because of a shared mutual appreciation for the same music, and we exchanged many messages over the past couple of years. Scott became one of my favorite 'virtual' friends that felt as real as any other friendship. Scott was one of the friendliest, kindest and helpful of all my online friends; he showed appreciation for my deceased husband's songs and music and shared them on his own wall. He consistently exhibited a generosity of spirit that is often difficult to find in the world. He would send me links with information to help me resolve copyright issues, and would always try to be helpful. I felt that the music of 3rd Bridge had a very cool retro-early 70's sound to it, which Scott seemed to approve of my saying. So, I was stunned and so saddened to read about his passing; because even though I never met Scott in person; I considered him a friend, and a nicer man could not be found. The 'heavenly choir' is lucky to have him. My heartfelt condolences to his family.

“ Dear Lea and Aaron, We are so sorry to hear this sad news. Scott was a genuine caring person . He would take the time to check on us when our sons car alarm went off and he came running over to see if we were ok. We sincerely want you to know our hearts break for you. Sending our prayers and love Bill , Michele and Max

“ Scott Halverson was one of only two people whom I allowed to grace my Facebook page without actually having met prior. He was a rock for me at the time of deep despair and grieving. His profound sadness so deep and the man, so gentle. He was a hero to me then. He was strong enough to reach out and touch my heart and understanding, to help me through it. Each day that I saw his posts and knew I am not alone in the well of tears. My heart went out to him and he effectively helped to pull me from that pain as it did. The loss of our loved ones is a bottomless pit of despair. But he helped me regain my bearings. I am saddened to know I will never be able to shake his hand and thank him in person. For Scott, some day I will meet you on the flip side and that handshake will be the biggest hug you can get from someone whom you've not met! Rest in Peace my friend.

“ We are heartbroken to hear of Scott's passing. Scott was a big supporter of our band. We enjoyed the music of 3rd Bridge very much. We were in contact with Scott and Craig during Scott's struggle with cancer. He was very positive, gracious and displayed an attitude of gratitude which was both admirable and highly inspiring. He will be extremely missed. It was a privilege to know him. Our sincere condolences, thoughts and prayers go out to Scott's family and friends.

“ Scott, you're forever my hero. The songs you wrote inspired me to play in a band as a teenager. I may never have gotten serious about drumming if not for you. Later in life when I came out of the closet, you told me without missing a beat that "this changes nothing, we love you for who you are." I'll never forget that moment, and I've recalled it on some of my darkest days. You taught me to love The Beatles, and this weekend, before I count off my band to cover "Hey Jude," I will light a candle by my drumset in your honor. Keep bringing me the peace and the love; I'll carry on the light and the music!
