“ Zos' is what I always called her since we were in 7th grade in 1948. We worked on a garden farm together, walked Lowry Avenue, visited Dusenka's on Friday evenings and just hung around.

In the last five years, she went to all of my Polish things, polka things and my Topola concerts. We met at least once a month at Broadway Pizza and shared our lives. I will miss her terribly. My only consolation is that she spoke a lot about being ready to die. In the interim, she was joyful, fun, social and kidding with everyone....especially waitresses and whoever she took a liking to in a restaurant. She was an excellent friend.
