“ I just recently found out the terrible of Steve's death. Although I have not talked to or seen Steve in many years I always knew him to be a wonderful man. He dated my mom for many years when I was young girl and I always loved having him around. I loved when Steve would take me to Gopher hockey games and all the laughs we shared together! I am so sorry to hear about the death of this wonderful man and even though my mom and him were never legally married I always considered him to be somewhat of a father figure. I will always have a special place for you in my heart Steve. God bless you. I love you Always, Sam

I never knew Steve, but just through knowing you, I'm sure he was a delightful person. Take care, and remember that God is holding him in His arms now! God bless you and your family! “ Though I haven't been in contact with Stephen for many years, I had the honor of dating him for 3-1/2 years during and after our college years. He truly was my first love and I would have married him in a heartbeat. I believe I even begged him but he just wasn't ready for that commitment. We parted as friends, tried some years later to date again, but both of us had changed enough to realize that things were just not meant to be for us. I see now, he didn't have time to marry! His life was so full of adventure, music, and hockey. His family and friends were such a huge part of his life that being single was not a detriment to him. In fact, it gave him extra time to really make lasting connections with, it seems like, every person he met. I feel fortunate to have been one of them all those years ago and I am a much better person because of him. He has always had a piece of my heart and he always will. Roger, Alki and Imogene, Sheri - I'm so glad I got to talk with each of you. I don't have to tell you Stephen was amazing - it was obvious in every single person that was at his celebration. Those he met, will never forget him.

“ Steve made a huge impact on everyone he met. Only one conversation with Steve was enough to realize that he was a great guy, great person. His friends in Canada will miss his laughs, smile and the huge hugs he would always give when saying goodbye! Steve always had time for everyone. To Roger, Imogene, Alki and the rest of Steve's family, our family is thinking of you at this difficult time. We will all grieve but in the end, we will celebrate Steve's life and that will involve a lot of laughs and smiles.~Josh, Christine, Rylee and Cadence Bashow/Calgary, AB

“ My wife Joanna and I were Steve's neighbors on Chowen for six years. Steve was a big reason why we loved our old home and neighborhood so much. We just moved, and we wished that we could take Steve with us so we could still be neighbors. Steve was a model neighbor in every sense of the term. When we replaced our fence, Steve helped us tear it out and take it to the dump. When our daughter was born, he gave us gift cards for pizza. Steve helped us take care of the huge elm in the back yard. Steve always waved to us with a smile when we crossed paths. During the winter and when he would go out of town, I would keep an eye on his house. After the really heavy snowfalls, I'd use our large snow thrower to clear his sidewalk and sometimes his boulevard because very little effort on my part saved him a significant amount of effort clearing heavy snow. Steve never asked for this help and clearly didn't need it because he liked the workout of shoveling the snow. He was always so gracious in thanking me, and I received great joy in the knowledge that something that was so easy for me to do saved him so much work, and I could tell that this meant a lot to him. We will keep Steve's family and friends in our heart and thoughts during this difficult time.

“ I met 'Minnesota Steve' through our friends Michelle and Doug at the Edmonton Folk Fest in 2000. “ We are so lucky to have had so many adventures, laughs, concerts and conversations with our friend Steve. We have so many memories to savour as he made a point of including Edmonton Folkfest on his yearly "to do" list! Steve always seemed to be living his life completely in the moment, and that was one of the reasons we loved him. He always made it known when he appreciated a gesture, song, friend, a beer etc. Because of this, we are left feeling like we were special to him as well. He always remembered our birthdays, brought thoughtful gifts to our kids and was an incredible listener. One time he came on a ski trip with a whole gang of us Canucks and we had a big potluck at the condo. Everyone had finished their meal and Steve had a big plateful of food left. As we watched him longer, we realized that he was deep in conversation with a couple people and was listening so intently that he didn't even eat. A few times he even started to bring the fork to his mouth but dropped it down to say something. He will be missed enormously, thought of often and loved always.

“ My sincere condolences to Steve's family and friends Steve was a wonderful person, so full of love and support for the happiness of others ...I met Steve through my son Josh and his wife Christine while attending the Edmonton Folkfest. Over the years, as I lived close to the venue, my home became an overnite 'resting' spot for weary Folkfest supporters. Steve was always welcome and he will be greatly missed, but his presence will never leave my home or my thoughts. He was interested, he listened, and thoughtfully shared his opinions with us and we listened to him, with so much respect and caring. We all love you Steve, you have made us all better and we thank you for this. I believe that you are now in a special place where you will continue your journey and still provide support and friendship to all of us. Take care buddy

However, you were a life long friend that often came up in conversation when my roots of Mora came into the conversation. Many people thought I was you. I know you were loved and appreciated by many of your classmates and friends from Mora. Thanks for being a great example of how a Steve Williams should act and treat people. He remembered you at the important times in your life, and always had a kind word. “ Steve was the kind of guy that, even though months may go by since you last saw him, it felt as if he had just stepped away to get one of his beloved micro-brews. Perhaps it was because he always left a room the way he entered: with a smile. He made the curmudgeons among us see things more optimistically. I never heard a mean sentence or an unkind word from him, about anyone. He wasn't above chuckling at sarcastic remarks but, if it became mean-spirited, he wasn't amused. You just couldn't be mean around Steve. He was a sweet man that made those around him a little sweeter too. My family and I will sorely miss him.

“ Steve had that wonderful and sometimes rare mix of enthusiasm and a willingness to be a hard worker. For a while now I've been in charge of the finish line refreshments at the City of Lakes 25K where Steve was a volunteer this past September. He was pitching in like everyone else when I noticed we were getting low on water. No problem, I thought, because we can draw water from a city faucet on the far side of one of the buildings at the Lake Harriet Bandshell. As I was putting a five-gallon bucket on a dolly for a refill, Steve inquired what was happening. So we walked together and I explained the process - push the empty bucket/dolly through the runners who had finished their race, load it up, and make the return trip. Now this chore is a bit of a grungy, behind-the-scenes job, compared to serving the happy runners, face-to-face, as they finish. So after Steve took it on himself to check the water supply and make another trip I said to him, “Hey man, you've paid your dues today. Thanks a lot.” Well, first he flashed that million-dollar smile.....and then promptly ignored me. Grabbing the dolly and another empty bucket, he was off to hustle another load of water. The look on his face-that million dollar smile-said this guy was having as much fun as anyone else. And how do I know that? When the race-day morning came to an end, we had to dump a couple of full buckets of water. Thanks Steve. I love ya man.

“ Steveo, I had just begun getting to know you. I can't believe this, I was looking forward to seeing concerts and talking music for years to come, I guess all I've got now is the memories of the few shows we did see together, most recently Todd Snider in early November. You accomplished a goal that night you told me, two guys knocked on the door as you were walking past, you opened it and they appeared to be well on their way to having a fantastic night at the show(inebriated), when they explained "we don't have tickets man, thanks for letting us in", after you told me the story, you said "I've kind of always wanted to do that", laughing the whole time you told me! I am so sorry for your family as they will be missing a fantastic individual, just know that he will always be around you, just take a minute to look around and see how Steve has made you laugh or smile, his memories will continue to do that for years to come, and tell stories, it's comforting in my experience with grief <http://youtu.be/oTIfLTbKhhMWarren> Zevon "Keep Me In Your Heart For A While"

“ Dear Steven, I called you Bambi most of the time when you were alive, but I am a little miffed right now that you died, and so I've been calling you Steven in my mind. I am not ready to say goodbye and I worry that you don't know how important you were to Geoff and me. You were a part of our lives in so many ways and as I look back, many of my favorite stories involve you—Full contact croquet at the Jerry Jeff concert in Elroy or your introduction to double diamond ski runs with Geoff and Bailey at Copper Mtn., or just hearing about the weekly hockey games from Geoff when he got home—his checking you into the boards or telling you to go get him a goal. (Apparently, Geoff forgot that you scored on him during your last Monday night game, but don't worry the hockey boys reminded him.) To your family, I am so sorry for their loss. I know how important they were to you and so I know how important you were to them. You were a son to be proud of—filled with so much kindness. And your relationship with your sister was one to envy. You were a brother to the Theta Chis and I suspect the band feels the same way—friend wasn't a deep enough word. I remember you attended my dad's funeral. It meant so much, perhaps because it was so unexpected, but that is who you were. You were someone who showed up and genuinely cared about others. As I have thought about the crazy, unexpected way you died, I have also thought about the crazy, unexpected way you lived. You seemed to grab life and live it fully. Ultimately, it is not about how you die but how you live and there is some comfort in that. Still, we should have had more time. I don't know what else to say, but that we will miss you.

“ There are a lot of ways to measure success in life. Perhaps the most meaningful way to measure success is to look at how many friends some one has. Steve had a lot of friends! One of the catch phrases he used to use with me is: "what are those people thinking?" He would ask this as though he expected an answer.
