“ Steve remained a kind and constant friend after I left Unisys around '80. Frequently we talked about food and that “the world was going to hell”. About once a year he and I and my husband would share life’s challenges over a meal, frequently at a Chinese restaurant. When Doug and I moved to a new house Steve helpfully allowed us to store some of our possessions in his home. That made our transition with child, business and piano much easier. One evening after visiting his mother he dropped by unannounced requesting coffee. He drank our Taster’s Choice and declared that he was still tired. He had expected a caffeine boost and I had only decaf. We will miss his gentle spirit.
