“ I was hanging out with a adam and matt yesterday and I was remembering science class again. The time matt was gonna stick the paper clip in the outlet. Steve told him maybe he should try it cause it might cause a fire...(Fire was our thing) It's been five years and still it seems like only yesterday. I'd like to say that as time goes by things are getting easier but they aren't. It seems actually to hurt more to let go. Especially when all you want to do is hold on tight so you never forget. His face, his eyes, his smile, and his voice. I wish it were as simple as just moving on and ignoring the heartbreak, but it's not. I think what's hurts most now, is that as time moves on everyone in our little group is moving on with time. We are all changing and slowly little pieces of the group are breaking away. It's hard cause they all take little pieces of my heart, but never as big of a piece that Steve will always hold.

“ Steven,

Yet another stone will be added under "THE TREE" this fall at CRHS. The poor girl hit by the train... I'm trying to think if she would have been your grade - I think not. I think she was younger than you would be. Mike, Janine & Laura - my husband and I think of you so often. We are so at the same spot. This year our youngest will graduate. Jade never made it to this special year (as didn't Steven). It's a tough one for us. Again - you are in our thoughts.

“ Dear Mike, Janine and Laura,
I wish so very much I, us, (or Tyler) could have known Steve. I hurt so much for you, Steve, and for Laura and your mom and dad. I truly, truly believe Jade and you are friends. Can you give us a sign about that???? I find some comfort in standing by your tree. Jade and YOUR stone - mark CRHS, Steve! It's really not enough, but it is all we have for now. AND, not many kids can say they left a permanent mark on CRHS! Steve, I really feel like the 2 of you will help each other - which only helps us, as parents. Steven and Jade - help us, as we, as families try to keep going.... We all love you very much.....

“ Stevie,

So much time has passed. So much has changed since you were here. Although it seems like only yesturday that we lost you, I know it wasn't. I tried to get around to signing the guest book tuesday, but I had no time. I miss you so much. It feels sometimes like time has started moving faster and faster seperating us from you that much quicker, or maybe Time has just changed the person I used to be. I miss you so much, I know I will never ever forget you. I love you stevie.

“ Stevie,

Not a day has gone by that I haven't thought of your warm smiling face. I remember the love that you shared as well as the kind words of advice that was as simple as the way you seemed to live. It wasn't hard to figure you out then and I'm sure now you are looking down on us wondering why we have to make life so complicated still. I miss you still as much today as I have since the day I found out you left us. My birthday is in two days and thinking about my birthday reminds me of the time that I went around and wrote "Happy Birthday Stevie" on all of the white boards and chalk boards in your classes. YOU wanted so badly for the day not to be made into a big deal and you just wanted to try and be mad at me after that, but you couldn't. It seemed like you could never be mad nor hold a grudge against anyone. I wish I could have been more like that. I wish I could still be more like that. You were simply amazing in so many ways. I loved you then and I will always love you. You were a wonderful friend and companion.

“ Hey Steven.

There isn't a day that I don't think of you and your family. I always wonder how Laura is doing. I can't help but wonder what happens to your family when the Holidays approach. Steven, when I talk to Jade's friends, I often bring you up. Not only were YOU robbed of a High School Career, but also the STUDENTS of your grade were robbed of you! That tree, Steven, is there in the name of Jade and you. It will be there FOREVER. I see you every time I stand by that tree. Steven, you will be a part of my thoughts forever. Tonight is yet another of many, many, many hard nights. I thought of you and wanted to write. To your family - I think of you always.

“ Janine- I heard of a book that I think may be helpful to you. I am sure that you have already read it but I wanted to pass it on because it is so wonderful. The book is titled "Mommy, Please Don't Cry" it is by Linda Deymaz and illustrated by Sabrina Smith. The book is written for mothers who have lost a child and comforting words that help a mom to know where her child is in heaven and what the child does there. I hope this can help to ease the pain. Steven is so missed and lives on through us everyday.

“ Steven, A third stone has been set by Jade and yours at the tree at CRHS. I was always so selfishly relieved that Jade's stone didn't sit alone and yet, so sad that another student, another child, had lost his life. Steven, you never got a shot at your high school career and yet, you need to know that you DID make an impact. OFTEN, Jade's friends and us talk about your short journey. Your sister, Laura, and Jade's brother, Tyler, will follow your legacy through Coon Rapids High School. You ARE remembered, Steven. And you are so missed.

“ Mike, Janine & Laura,

I know today is incredibly difficult for all of you. My tears, thoughts and concern are with you today as they are every day. I have lost your phone number but we do think of you daily. A friend of ours gave me a CD w/ the song "You're Still You" (by Josh Groshan) on it. It is sooo about Jade and Steve under these circumstances. If you'd like to hear it I would gladly burn a copy for you. The words are on Jade's legacy but you really need to hear it for it to "fit".

Steve - this is NOT how your birthday should be. NOT for you, your mom, dad or your sister! I hope you know how many people are thinking of you and wish you were here for your 16th! I hope Jade and you are good friends and are looking out for all of your family and ours. You are still a part of your family, Steve, just as Jade is still a part of ours. That will never change!

You are missed.

“ Stevie,

I just got Creed's Weathered cd today. I started to cry when I listened to it. Every time I hear a song from Creed, it makes me think of you, and your energy for life. I wish I could possess that much energy and enthusiasm for life. I love to think about you and the love you had for others, it makes me want to strive to be more loving and accepting of people; with the stuff that's happened this past year I guess I have too. I can't believe it's been so long since I have seen you. I miss you so much. Sometimes when I am lying awake in the middle of the night I think I hear your voice. Of course I don't. So much has happened since you left us, you wouldn't believe how quickly things have changed, I feel like I'm living in a completely different world than I was when I knew you. I think about you so often. I pray that I see you again someday, and I know I will. Thank you for still being an inspiration even though you are gone. I love you.

Mike, Janine, and Laura-

My prayers are still with you. I hope that we can see each other soon. I love you guys.

“ Hi Steve,

Today is just another day and I miss you so much. We had a family get-together the other weekend. While we all had a wonderful time and were able to laugh, there was still a great part of our family missing. You were so sorely missed that day and everyday. Your Mom, Dad and Laura miss you more than any of us could possibly comprehend. When I think of how much I miss you, your laugh, your bad Viking jokes, your intelligence, your compassion, your protectiveness of Laura it hurts so deep and so much. Then I think that if I multiply that by a million perhaps that is close to how much your Mom, Dad and Laura miss you. I just want you to know on this beautiful summer day that I will all always love you and you will be missed for the rest of my life. I will see you in every bright thing I look at.

“ To the Nielsen Family:

I saw your sons' picture in the Coon Rapids High School Newspaper (Cardinal Chronicle) and it made me so sad, that a sweet boy had to pass away. I knew someone else who also passed away. Jade dorosh-walther. it was very devestating, and with that I feel terrible that another student from our school won't be with us. The good that came out of this was knowing he is not in any pain at all. He is in a place where there can be no pain and no hard times. It is very hard to comprehend at a time like this. My uncle has cancer right now and isn't in the best health. He is a big fighter just like your son was. It gives me hope that my uncle will do better, because steve never gave up. I know I don't know him, but reading about him helps out. My prayers and thoughts are completely with you guys. Remember that Steve is looking down on you and doesn't want you to be sad! God Bless you all! Thanks for having shared a wonderful son!

“ Stevie,

What can I say. You were always a good friend to me. I miss you so much. At times though I forget you are gone, and then it hits me really hard all over again. I can't help but cry and smile at the same time while I think of you and your fearless heart. You made me feel better when my best friend died from cancer last March. There's this song I listen to all the time that reminds me of you and always brings me to tears. The last verse talks about a little girl on her daddy's lap, hiding her disease with a baseball cap. It says "you can change the channel most people do, but what if you were sitting in her daddy's shoes?" Then it goes on to say what if she's an angel. In my heart I can picture you. With your hat on covering your head. I miss you everyday and it seems that even though people tell me it'll get better with time, it doesn't seem to be true yet. Some days I just wish I could hear your voice again, if even for only a moment in time. but I know what that would do, that would leave me wishing for another moment of your sweet voice. If I could only see your face one more time, the way I used to see you in class I would be happy for at least that moment. In my heart you will always be my angel. I changed a lot in the time I knew you. For the better of course. I learned to love unselfishly. You opened the door to a whole new world for me. You always cared, always loved, and always were loved in return by others. I love you Stevie. You will always own that little piece of my heart.

*Love Always,
Rachel McRae*

Mike, Janine and Laura,

My thoughts and prayers are always with you. I care so much for you. I hope we never lose touch. You are my only connection to the Stevie we all once knew and loved. I am so thankful everyday, for allowing your son to be a part of my life. I thank God everyday, for a family like you for Stevie to be a part of. You will always hold a little piece of my heart too. I love you all.

God bless you.

You have no idea how much I miss you. I would do anything just to be with you again back in computer class seeing you laugh and smile again. Over the summer and 9th grade I know we grew apart and I regret that so much. We are and will always be one of the nicest people I know. A day hasn't gone by that I haven't missed you. You will be missed by so many people and never forgotten.

Steves Family,

I never got to meet you while Steve was alive but I finally did at the wake and funeral and then saw you at the school once. I really could not imagine what it would be like to loose a son or my brother. I think about Steve every day and pray every night that he's ok. I know that he's happy up in heaven. His questions were insightful, his answers were thoughtful, and usually right on.

Not that he wouldn't enjoy the clowning around done by some in his class. We'll deeply miss Steven in our church community.
