“ What a sweet man he was! I miss Veijo’s smiling face, enthusiasm, positive outlook and all his stories about WW2 and Finland and his running career. On one of his last walks around the lake, I told him that he “was putting me to shame” with his miles of walking every day. His reply was always the same, “well, you know I was a runner for many years, but now I just walk.” He always brightened my day with his “can do” attitude.

Well, Veijo, now you are running with the saints, many of whom also loved the great outdoors! I continue to pray for you and your family!
