Trust me when I tell you that a kid from southern Missouri doesn't know how to ice skate. I'll never forget that when mama and I lived briefly in MN, cousin Vernon brought me a pair of ice skates, laced them up for me, and took me out and taught me the basics of ice skating. Vernon also filmed my dad on our last family vacation before dad died, and sent it to me on video. That was so meaningful to me. Vernon was a good man, so I'm only telling of some of his goodness you may not have known about. We are all thinking of you now.
